Join the global initiative and participate in KU Select 2016!

Your Opportunity to Make Books Open Access

Your participation supports an ever-growing number of institutions that are using acquisitions funds to make Humanities and Social Sciences monographs Open Access in a way that is less expensive than the purchase of single print copies and/or e-books – and you are bringing benefit to the whole world of scholarly communications.

KU Select 2016

- 343 titles available: 147 front list (Nov 2016-April 2017) and 196 backlist (2005-2015)
- 54 well-respected scholarly publishers participating on 5 continents including university presses, commercial publishers and Open Access publishers
- Curated by the KU Title Selection Committee consisting of 40 librarians in 12 countries
- 14 packages in the Humanities and Social Sciences:
Anthropology, Archaeology, Classics, Economics & Management, History, Information Science, Languages & Linguistics, Literature, Media & Communications, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, Theology & Religion
- Creative Commons licences - hosted by OAPEN and HathiTrust, also preserved by CLOCKSS and Portico.

Popular With Your Authors

"KU is an absolutely stellar program that has tangibly expanded the reach of "Understanding the Global Energy Crisis." KU represents a timely, innovative, and altogether new forum to facilitate this dialogue!"

Eugene Coyle and Richard Simmons – KU Pilot Authors

"I do not believe I can publish my next book without insisting on an OA option: it's the ethical thing for researchers to do, and it simply makes good business sense for authors in terms of distributing our work."

Jennifer Fredette – KU Pilot Author
