

DeGruyter, Peter Lang, Vervuert and Knowledge Unlatched cooperate for Open Access in Romance Studies

Berlin, 02.10.2018. Together with the international publishers Peter Lang, DeGruyter and Vervuert, Knowledge Unlatched (KU) is forming a collection of books in Romance studies. KU will collect funding from libraries all over the world to make 36 titles which are to be published between 2019 and 2021 available as Open Access. Publication will be overseen by a prestigious editorial board.

KU's Romance Studies package, which is now open for pledging by libraries, is the first cross-publisher initiative in the field of Romance Studies. Libraries will help to finance the publication of 12 new titles a year which will be published as gold Open Access, alongside 12 backlist titles which will be made available Open Access free of charge.

About Knowledge Unlatched: Knowledge Unlatched (KU) offers every reader worldwide free access to scientific content. The online platform provides libraries worldwide with a central point of contact to support Open Access models of leading publishers and new Open Access initiatives.

Contact:

Philipp Hess, Publicity & Communications, Knowledge Unlatched

philipp@knowledgeunlatched.org