

While the number of online publications of scholarly works within the field of Law is increasing, the number of Open Access publications have always been relatively low compared to other subjects. Books on legal aspects of all kinds of topics concerning digitalization are on the rise throughout all Peter Lang's series in Law. Especially in areas like artificial intelligence, blockchain, robotic cars, cryptocurrencies, crypto investments, smart contracts, and legal aspects of neuromarketing. There is even more to be expected within the next 3 years.

The Cooperative Model

Peter Lang will make 30 frontlist titles in IT Law (German language) available Open Access over 3 years. The KU library crowdfunding model will be used to collect library support for a three-year period. Peter Lang already showed its commitment by releasing 5 backlist titles in 2018, free of charge to libraries. The 10 new monographs per year will be selected by a specialized review board including people like:

- Prof. Dr. Thomas Hoeren, Law professor and a former Court of Appeal Judge (Universität Münster)
- Prof. Dr. Georgios Gounalakis, Professor of Civil Law, Private International Law, Comparative Law and Media Law (Philipps-Universität Marburg)

Benefits for Libraries

Supporting institutions contribute to supporting Open Access in German IT Law and overcoming the reservations against Open Access publishing in the Law discipline. The end result will be 35 German language titles in IT Law openly available to everyone.
