

KU Journal Flipping 2019

Invest in a large-scale transition towards OA and APC-free journals

Your participation in KU Journal Flipping 2019 supports the large-scale transition of up to 50 journals from 10 publishers into Open Access – free of all APCs. The Selection Committee consisting of librarians from around the world has already selected the first 21 journals of the collection to be converted into Open Access. Through this cooperative approach, libraries and research institutions can contribute to an inclusive Open Access environment devoid of any APCs – enabling any researcher worldwide to publish Open Access within these journal titles.

Accelerate the Open Access transition

The collection includes the first set of 21 journal titles selected for their relevancy from 7 established publishers. Libraries investing in this collection will be connected with an international library consortium at the forefront of making Open Access work. With the participation of 50 libraries at the minimum pledging level, a large step towards an OA and APC-free publishing environment can be made.
