

Routledge Gender Studies is a newly-established list which builds on Routledge's strengths and publishing prestige, including works by key authors such as Judith Butler and bell hooks. Together with Knowledge Unlatched Routledge seeks to make this list of global and cutting-edge research content available Open Access. Hot topics such as LGBTQ rights, Post-Colonialism and Feminist Pedagogy will be included in the collection. Interdisciplinary areas range from Motherhood to Beauty, and Sport to Film and Culture.

A Brand New Collection

The Routledge Gender Studies Collection shall comprise of highly relevant titles to readers all over the world. The books in this collection will be hosted on platforms such as the Open Research Library, Taylor & Francis eBooks and others, under creative commons licenses. Through widespread distribution of the books we ensure visibility and promote access to readers world-wide.

Benefits for Libraries

With the support of 125 libraries worldwide, 45 frontlist books in Gender Studies will be published over a three year period (2020 – 2022). For libraries, MARC records will be provided for seamless cataloging of titles. In addition, quarterly usage reports will be distributed to demonstrate the impact and uptake of these titles.

Supporters receive 35% discount on print editions of these titles in recognition of KU participation (please contact the publisher to take advantage of this offer)

Guaranteed Access: Libraries who pledge their support to Routledge Gender Studies will be guaranteed free access to the digital version of all the books included in the collection – either to the Open Access version or the closed digital version should the full funding target not be reached.
