

Language Science Press 2021 - 2023

Renewal of successful 3-year model

The ground-breaking initiative in the field of Linguistics, Language Science Press (LSP), will have successfully made over 115 books available fully Open Access between 2018 and the end of 2020. Thanks to the funding from over 100 libraries worldwide, researchers are able to publish their books in Linguistics completely free of any author-facing charges. Due to the success of the first round, and to ensure sustainability for the model, LSP and Knowledge Unlatched (KU) are offering a renewal of the model with the aim of making a further 90 new book titles available Open Access between 2021 and 2023.

A Proven Model

- The leading community-based, non-profit, publishing initiative in Linguistics with more than 1,000 supporting researchers
- Over 115 books in Linguistics have been funded by libraries from all over the world between 2018 and 2020 under a CC-BY licence
- Over 100 institutions worldwide participated in the first round
- Researchers can submit and publish Open Access without any Book Processing Charged (BPCs)

Language Science Press 2021 - 2023

- 115 libraries are needed for the second round of LSP to help make 30 books available Open Access per year 2021 - 2023
- All titles hosted on the Open Research Library (ORL) and OAPEN as well as the publisher's platform
- Quarterly usage reports available for participating institutions
