OAPEN and DOAB are both not-for-profit foundations that cannot be sold or acquired.

OAPEN features an online library where readers can view and access full-text academic books for free.

DOAB is a community-driven, free discovery service that indexes and provides access to academic, peer-reviewed open access books and helps users find trusted open access book publishers.

Together we promote and support the transition to open access for academic books by providing open infrastructure services to libraries in scholarly communication.
